

Healthcare and First Responder Volunteers

In an emergency, local resources get called upon first, sometimes with little or no warning. As a member of the Medical Reserve Corps (MRC), you can be part of an organized and trained team. You will be ready and able to bolster local emergency planning and response capabilities.

The specific role that you will play, and the activities in which you will participate, will depend upon your background, interests and skills, as well as the needs of the MRC and the community.

Many MRC members are just like you – nurses, doctors, pharmacists, therapists, and public health officials who believe in keeping your local area healthy, prepared and resilient. They share your commitment to helping others and making a difference.

You may also work closely with staff members from the local health department, emergency management agency, hospital or other organizations that partner with the MRC. In fact, the services that you provide may help these other organizations to meet their mission.
